After God created the earth in just seven days, he charged humanity with overseeing his Creation and subduing and filling the earth. There was just one rule: don't eat the fruit from the forbidden tree. Well, that's just what humans did, and a perfect relationship with God was severed as humanity was kicked out of the presence of the Lord while being escorted out of a perfect world in the Garden of Eden, never allowed to return. It was a rotten beginning to the world, for sure.

After humanity fell, it fell hard continuing a rotten beginning that was wiped out with a Great Flood. Then, a short time later, God called a man named Abram and officially began a story of redemption. Abram's call started a movement that ended in the resurrection of the Messiah. The movement spanned 2,000 years and had stories upon stories filled with all kinds of heroes and villains and happiness and heartbreak and freedom and oppression and cluelessness and understanding and everything else a good, long story should have. Through this story of redemption, we are shown the unrelenting love our God has for us and his desperation to be with us.

From Adam and Eve to Noah to Abram to Jacob to Joseph to Moses to Joshua to David to the Messiah, we see a beautiful story of redemption formulated to bring us back into perfect community with God. Praise the Lord he gave us a fresh heart and a fresh start. Stay fresh!
